The Southern California Economic Forecast is an annual conference that brings together over 500 local business and community leaders as well as elected officials. The conference delivers an economic forecast based on business indicators derived from local, regional and state entities.

The event is presented by Citizens Business Bank and hosted by the Inland Empire Center of Claremont McKenna College, a joint venture between the Lowe Institute of Political Economy and the Rose Institute of State and Local Government.

Jerry Nickelsburg, Ph.D., will deliver the UCLA Anderson National Forecast as well as a forecast on the state of California.

An exciting addition to this year's conference is Todd Buchholz, who brings his experience as a former White House Director of Economic Policy, a managing director of the $15 billion Tiger hedge fund, and a Harvard economics teacher to the cutting edge of economics, fiscal politics, finance and business strategy. "I am excited to keynote this annual conference and look forward to sharing my views on the election and its potential impact to the U.S. economy with the business professionals and community leaders in attendance," said Buchholz.

Held at Citizens Business Bank Arena, located at 4000 E. Ontario Center, in Ontario, California, the conference will begin at 7 am with registration, breakfast and a networking session. At 8 am, the conference will transition to state and local forecasts followed by the keynote speaker and a Q&A session.

With over 500 business and political attendees, this is a must attend event for Southern California businesses. Tickets are $75 or a table of 10 is available for $650. To register or learn about sponsorship opportunities, visit www.SoCalEcon.com or call 909-607-7572.
